THE FATE OF THE BIG AMONG THE LITTLE.

Because he said something very pleasant about Hon. Tom L. Johnson, the newly elected mayor of Cleveland, some of the little minnows and sparrows of the democratic press are making very vicious and vindictive attacks on Mr. Bryan, and claim that he has backslided from the democratic faith and turned his back on his own utterances.

These little bit bits seem really to believe that "poverty" is the creed of the democratic party, and that there is no place in its ranks for a rich man.

Mr. Bryan, however, contends very justly that the democratic party makes no war on wealth, and certainly not on honestly acquired wealth, and cites his little chirping critics to the planks in the Chicago and Kansas City platforms, and his letter of acceptance relating thereto.

We should like very much to reproduce Mr. Bryan's article in the columns of the Ocala Banner, and are really sorry that we have mislaid that particular issue of the Commoner.

Because he has said something commendable about Mr. Flagler taking up his residence in Florida and spending the bulk of his fortune here, some of our 2x4 Daniel Websters claim that the editor of the Ocala Banner has likewise turned his back on the Chicago platform and all that it stands for, and has gone over into the ranks of the enemy.

If that platform were as narrow and as soulless as these little editors construe it to be the editor of the Ocala Banner would never have had anything to do with it in the first place, but fortunately the platform is as "tall as a church steeple and as broad as a barn door," so to speak.

The editors who misconstrue it are little, narrow and illiberal—the platform itself is big enough.

Because of his conscientious utterances on the subject of "divorce" some of the lilliputians conducting the press of Florida have anathematized Rev. Josephus Anderson, who is now almost an octogenarian, and has devoted all the years of his life in preaching the gospel of the Son of God.

One newspaper says that Rev. Josephus Anderson and Frank Harris "need the prayers of all good people." Another that the editor of the Christian Advocate and the editor of the Ocala Banner should "strive and get back on the Lord's side."

The editor of the Ocala Banner does not feel it much of a humiliation to be labeled "two-of-a-kind" and placed in the same boat in politics with so clear an exponent of democracy as William J. Bryan, and, in religion, with so virtuous and exalted a man as Josephus Anderson.

But carping and unjust criticism has been the penalty meted out to those who have had the courage of their convictions in all ages, and Mr. Bryan and Rev. Josephus Anderson ought not and are not complaining very bitterly.

Certainly the editor of the Ocala Banner is not doing so.

He gave it up as useless long ago in trying to force a 2x4 editor to fill a 4x8 chair, and would as soon undertake to make a "silk purse out of a sow's ear."

Until this is possible these little flea bites in the way of criticisms will continue.

We are reminded that the bray of the ass and screech of the hyena penetrate as far as the roar of the lion, and where there is one eagle there are many sparrows, and where there is one whale there are many minnows, and the little sparrows seem to regard the eagle in his flight as a natural antagonist, and the army of minnows seem to entertain the same warlike feeling toward the Jonah of the seas.

The eagle, the king bird of the air, and the whale, the leviathan of the deep, are compelled to endure the attacks of their little tormentors.

So what is the lone and lonesome editor to do?

Can he do more than the eagle or the whale?

The constant little nibbles, pecks and bites of his tormentors is the penalty one must pay for being bigger than his kind.

Death of Mrs. A. S. Lester.

Early last Saturday morning, Mrs. A. S. Lester, sister of Mr. S. A. Standley, died of pulmonary troubles at her home in this city. She was fifty-five years of age and had been living in Ocala about a year and a half. Mrs. Lester was a woman of lovely character and was a devoted member of the Methodist church. She leaves a grown son and daughter, Mr. Standley Lester and Miss Pearl Lester, to mourn her death.

Her remains were shipped over the Plant System Saturday afternoon to her old home in Shellman, Ga., where the interment took place Sunday afternoon. Her remains were accompanied to Shellman by her brother, Mr. Standley, and her son, Standley.

An Appeal.

We are certain that our time is very short on this mundane sphere, therefore we are very anxious to do all the good we can and to as many as we can.

We believe our efforts are unselfish. We could find easier fields of labor and where we could and would be remunerated substantially, but we are not looking for the "filthy lucre," but for souls.

We ought to have the help of all good men and women—those who love the Lord. Our efforts are not directed against the churches, but against sin. Our aim is to gather in the ones who are the "poor," and the "maimed," and the "halt," and the "blind" who are in "streets and lanes of the city," those dear ones who seem to be "opposing" themselves by thinking they are too poor, too utterly insignificant to go among those who attend other places of worship.

We, therefore, appeal to the ministers of the various denominations to give us a good word and a helping hand in our efforts to save these dear ones, for rest assured, this will not cut down your membership but may be the means of helping to build you up, at least spiritually if not numerically.

Every city of any size has a Gospel Mission. Why not Ocala?

Then come. All are welcome. No collection will ever trouble you, for we depend upon the Lord for means to support this work, and He will put it into the hearts of His children to contribute secretly for the maintenance of the work.

"A certain man made a great supper, and bade many, and sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, come, for all things are now ready, and they all, with one consent, began to make excuse."

Friend, do not make any excuse, but come. Tuesday evening at 7:30 and Sunday at 11 a. m.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.
